DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 U.S.C. § 112

- 1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:
  - The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.
- 2. Claims 11-12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. In claim 11, line 7, "the remote call center" lacks clear antecedent basis.

Claim Rejections - 35 U.S.C. § 103

- 3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:
  - (a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.
- 4. Claims 11-12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Andrews et al (USP 5,848,143).

Andrews teaches a Internet protocol network telephony system having a routing server (48) and a database (54). See figure 2. Routing server route the incoming calls to the agents using stored and processed information in the data base (historical information) about transaction including agent skill, status, availability, etc... See col. 6, lines 31-35 and 42-62. Andrews further teaches that the system can handle Internet phone call. See figure 9, col. 11, lines 39-67. Andrews differs from the claim in that Andrews's database is within the center as opposed to being located remotely from the call center. However, one skilled in the art would have recognized that such remote location would have been desirable if the information is to be shared among different call centers or that the information is to be managed by a remote management site. Thus, it would have been obvious to one skilled in the art to modify Andrews' system to have the data base located remote from the call center with the motivation being to share the information among the call centers.

5. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 11-12 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
